LORNA G. SCHOFIELD
UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE

Re: Harrington Global Opportunity Fund, Ltd. v. CIBC World Markets Corp. et al., No. 21-cv-00761 (LGS)

Dear Judge Schofield,

We write on behalf of Defendant UBS Securities Canada (“UBS Canada” or the “Company”) in the above-referenced case (the “Action”) regarding the pending motion to dismiss (the “Motion to Dismiss”). See ECF Nos. 72-78. UBS Canada respectfully requests leave to file a proposed supplemental declaration containing a single additional sentence to support UBS Canada’s further argument that this Court lacks specific jurisdiction (in addition to lacking general jurisdiction). A copy of the proposed supplemental declaration is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

In support of the Motion to Dismiss, UBS Canada submitted the Declaration of Lisa Petrelli, Managing Director and Head of Global Markets for UBS Canada, in support of its argument that no basis for general personal jurisdiction exists over the Company in the Action. See ECF No. 78. It was not until after Defendants filed the Motion to Dismiss that UBS Canada was able to complete an analysis of its trading data and confirm that it conducted substantially no proprietary trading of Concordia International Corp. stock on the NASDAQ (the only trades at issue in the Action) during the relevant trading period.

UBS Canada therefore respectfully requests leave to file a supplemental declaration that attests to the results of its analysis. That additional sentence would simply state that UBS Canada “conducted substantially no proprietary trading of Concordia International Corp. stock on the NASDAQ during the relevant time period alleged in the Complaint (January 27, 2016 to November 15, 2016).” UBS Canada today requested Plaintiff Harrington Global Opportunity Fund, Ltd.’s consent to file the supplemental personal jurisdiction declaration, and while Harrington did not consent to the filing, the declaration would not prejudice Plaintiff and, respectfully, we request that the Court exercise its discretion to grant leave to permit the filing of the declaration anyway.

Leave to file a supplemental declaration “rests entirely with the court’s discretion.” Marsh v. Johnson, 263 F. Supp. 2d 49, 53-54 (D.D.C. 2003); see also 7 W. 57th St. Realty Co., LLC v. CitiGroup, Inc., No. 13 Civ. 981 (PGG), 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 44031, at *4 n.3 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 31, 2015) (granting plaintiff’s request for leave to file supplemental declaration in opposition to the defendant foreign banks’ motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction). That discretion should be exercised here to permit the filing of the supplemental declaration.

The supplemental declaration would not prejudice Plaintiff, nor would it necessarily extend or change the current briefing schedule. The Motion to Dismiss already sets forth substantially the same legal argument that the supplemental declaration is intended to support. That argument is simply that there is no specific jurisdiction because of the lack of suit-related trading of Concordia shares in the New York forum during the relevant period. See Motion to Dismiss at 1, 8. Because the argument is already set forth in the moving papers, Plaintiff would not need to raise new counter arguments in response to the supplemental declaration.

Sincerely,
